About the Projects

The Delaware County Transportation Improvement District (TID), Franklin County TID, Licking County TID, and the Ohio Department of Transportation are working together to coordinate multiple projects referred to as the Silicon Heartland County Line Projects along and around the County Line Road area, approximately 15 miles northeast of downtown Columbus. Examples of project activities being coordinated include project development, plan design, utility relocation, property acquisition, and construction. Each agency is responsible for administering their own project(s) but have jointly decided to provide information about the roadway and intersection improvements being planned and developed in one cohesive package for your convenience. The map on page 2 shows the location and a brief description of several projects in this area, but this notification and open house focuses on the following specific projects:
